Do you know about Volunteering
for Businesses

Are you a trusted friend, neighbour or colleague with a few hours to give to a worthwhile cause?

Charitable organisations in Amber Valley often need volunteers to help them continue providing a service to their community.

Many people find the volunteer experience interesting and rewarding. Some go on to gain qualifications or employment in their chosen field, and are occasionally honoured with an award.

You may be looking for a new interest, while one of these community groups could be looking for qualities such as yours.

Working alongside equally committed people, you would receive training and support to enable you to give your best and gain the satisfaction you deserve.

Whatever your age, race, gender, disability, or level of skill why not take the first step, and find out more?

Perhaps you have one of these skills?

- Managing money
- Advising or mentoring
- Planning projects
- Personnel or legal issues
- Decision taking
- Leading successful teams

Trustees and committee members are often required for voluntary groups in Amber Valley. By meeting for just a few hours a month, in a charity to suit your experience and existing obligations, you could gain the satisfaction of helping to develop or manage one of the many inspirational voluntary groups in the area.

So whether you wish to pass on your skills, or are looking for a new experience in readiness for a change of employment or retirement, we would welcome hearing from you.
