

Could you
Volunteer
to be a Trustee

Are you a trusted friend, neighbour or colleague with a few hours to give to a worthwhile cause?

Many charitable organisations in Amber Valley need volunteers to help them continue providing a service to their community. Business professionals, managers, employees and retired people have a vital part to play in this process.

Why Volunteer?

People usually volunteer to make a difference to society or to help people in their community. Whatever the reasons, most people find the volunteer experience both interesting and rewarding. Some go on to gain further qualifications or employment in their chosen field, and are occasionally recognised with an award.

You may be looking for a new interest, while a voluntary group could be looking for qualities such as yours.

Working alongside equally committed people, you would receive training and support to enable you to give your best and gain the satisfaction you deserve from volunteering. So whatever your age, race, gender, level of ability, or skill why not take the first step, and find out more?

Perhaps you have one or more of these skills?

- Managing money
- Advising or mentoring
- Planning projects
- Personnel or legal issues
- Decision taking
- Leading successful teams
- Human resource experience
- Strategic planning / decision making

Trustees and committee members are always required for voluntary groups in Amber Valley. By meeting for just a few hours a month, in a charity to suit your experience and existing obligations, you could have the satisfaction of helping to develop or manage one of the many inspirational voluntary groups in the area.

So whether you wish to pass on your skills, or are looking for a new experience in readiness for a change of employment or retirement, Amber Valley Volunteer Centre would welcome hearing from you.
